Beijing Foreign Studies University 2020-2021

WELCOME MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dear students and colleagues,

Thank you for your interests in Beijing Foreign Studies University (BFSU).

BFSU, known as the “cradle of diplomats”, is a leading university in China which excels in foreign language teaching and research and serves as an important talent base producing multilingual and interdisciplinary professionals with global vision. BFSU now offers programs of 101 foreign languages, covering the official languages of all the countries China has diplomatic relations with. Dedicated to bridging China and the world and promoting diversity of civilizations, the university has produced some of the best diplomats, scholars, lawyers, journalists, business leaders, and a great number of professionals of other fields over the past years.

While renowned for excellence in foreign languages & literature, the university offers multi-disciplinary academic programs in a warm and family-like environment. BFSU has 121 bachelor’s programs, 44 of which are found exclusively at BFSU in China. It also offers advanced degree programs in 6 major fields—literature, economics, management, law, education, and history, including academic degree programs (master) under 50 subjects and professional degree programs (master) under 27 subjects. According to QS university rankings in 2018, 2 subjects—linguistics and modern languages—ranked among top 100 globally.

BFSU works in partnership with 320 universities and academic institutions in 78 countries and regions, and operate 23 Confucius Institutes/independent Confucius Classroom in 18 countries.

We would like to extend our warmest invitation to you to experience our academic excellence, wide range of extracurricular activities and internship opportunities. With top-tier faculty, strong programs, friendly staff, and a pleasant living environment, we are sure you will receive quality education and have great future job potentials.

We look forward to welcoming you here in Beijing.

Undergraduate Program in English (4 years)

● School of English and International Studies

English and International Studies

The undergraduate course of English and International Studies major lasts four years. The major courses are divided into two modules: the major core courses and the major direction courses. The core courses of the major are composed of language skills courses and introduction to professional knowledge courses. Among them, the skills series courses aim to optimize students' language foundation and comprehensively improve their language use ability. Introduction to professional knowledge courses (summary introduction to British and American literature, introduction to linguistics, Chinese culture, western civilization and ideological recite classics, cross-cultural communication, introduction to digital humanities) respectively help students understand the general picture of relevant directions in panoramic introductory way, help students form the preliminary (cross-disciplinary) discipline consciousness, provide a basis for subsequent professional direction course learning. Major courses are divided into compulsory courses and elective courses, including five series of professional knowledge courses and research methods courses of literature, linguistics, translation, sociology and cultural studies, national and regional studies. Each major direction provides courses related to the classic literature, basic theory, research methods, case analysis and other courses through a series of required and elective courses, providing students with systematic professional discipline training, comprehensively improving (cross-disciplinary) discipline awareness, critical thinking ability, personal quality and professional potential.

Translation and Interpreting

The undergraduate education of translation major is four years. First and second grade students must take the core skills courses and basic national conditions courses of the English and International Studies. At the same time, they must expand and improve their native language cultivation through reading and writing. With the promotion of basic teaching, the second grade students begin to receive basic training of oral and written translation, initially master the practical skills of oral and written translation, and generally grasp the nature and procedures of translation; After entering grade three and grade four, in addition to the weekly special translation and various interpretation of high intensity training, they also need to take the following elective courses taught in English: English literature, English linguistics, social and cultural studies, international politics and economy, cross-cultural communication to broaden the knowledge, enhance discipline-awareness and potential. The curriculum of Grade 3 and Grade 4 focuses on research and discussion learning, which focuses on broadening students' scope of knowledge and improving their ability of research-based independent learning and critical thinking. Due to the students' solid translation ability and comprehensive quality foundation, translation major students' TEM-8 certificate pass rate has been ranking the top of our school with the record of all the students passing at one time in recent years, and has been among the best among similar colleges and majors in China.

● International Business School

For core courses, please refer to: <https://solbridge.bfsu.edu.cn/academics/bachelor/international-business>

Business Administration—International Marketing

International Marketing examines the impact of economic, cultural, political, legal and other environmental influences on international marketing. Within this context, the focus is on how to identify and analyze worldwide marketing opportunities, and examine product, pricing, distribution and promotion strategies.

Finance

Finance is the branch of economics that studies the dynamics of exchange rates, foreign investment, and how these affects international trade. It also studies international projects, international investments and capital flows, and trade deficits. Courses include the study of futures, options and currency swaps.

International Business

International Business introduces students to the world of global business. Courses cover the basics of the global economy, cultural influences on business, the impact of government decisions on business, what form of business to choose, importing and exporting goods and services, foreign exchange, and international management topics.

Business Administration—Chinese Business Studies

Chinese Business Studies is a well-tailored, economics-based, multi-disciplinary program focusing on specific areas relevant to doing business in China. With relevant business theories and up-to-date applications, the program aims to provide students with systematic knowledge of business practices and the ability to analyze changes in government policies and regulations that affect business operations in China.

E-Commerce

China is the largest e-commerce market in the world, such as Alibaba (Taobao), JD.com, Tencent (Wechat) has become the most critical touch point of e-commerce, which brought the major of e-commerce into emerging, as it is tailored to equip international students with comprehensive knowledge and professional insight in e-commerce business. This major focus on global-leading innovative tactics, pioneering spirit and practical capacity based on the Internet innovation and big data analysis etc. Also, we will explore strategic business model and managerial principles applied to organizations that conduct businesses via the internet in China. Rich cases will be applied in this course.
